

Andrew “Drew” Conrad brings nearly three decades of experience in statewide economic development planning, research, and technical assistance to his leadership role, where he facilitates strategic planning and regional economic research for communities and economic development organizations.

Conrad is active in various professional and community organizations and volunteer activities. He currently represents the Board of Regents on the Iowa Workforce Development Board and serves on Iowa’s Sector Partnership Leadership Council and the UNI Alumni Association Board of Directors. When Conrad works with students on projects, he provides them with useful, practical experiences that will help them with career development.