

John Ponder White

jpwhite@crec.net

John Ponder just finished his first year of the Masters of Public Policy program at the University of Minnesota. There he serves as the senior editor for the Public Affairs Review and sometimes work on a Christmas Tree farm. Before that he worked as a professional entertainment technician specializing in electrics. He is working on the Credential Engine project as well at the State Incentives database.