RECOVERY POINT WEST VIRGINIA

HOPE. HEALING. STRONGER COMMUNITIES.

Wraparound Services for Recovery & Employment

Removing Barriers. Building Stability. Creating pathways to lasting recovery.

Who we are

- Peer-based recovery model rooted in connection and accountability
- Four long-term residential recovery facilities across West Virginia
- Services extend beyond residential care to support stability, health and employment
  - Transitional Housing
  - Employment Readiness
  - Transportation
  - Behavioral Health

HOW IT FITS TOGETHER

A connected continuum of support

Residential recovery	Transitional housing	Routes to Recovery	Recovery Point Bridge	Behavioral Health
Build a foundation	Practice independence	Access work and appointments	Connect to community and opportunity	Address clinical needs

The right support, at the right time, makes recovery more sustainable.

Transitional housing: the bridge to independence

- A supportive next step after residential recovery programs
- Structure and accountability while residents working toward independence
- Time to seek employment, savings and daily living skills
- Ongoing connection to peer support and recovery resources

Transitional housing across our continuum

The Point Apartments

Huntington • Existing transitional housing
Peer support, case management and employment stability

Bluefield Phase III

15 beds • In development
Independent living with continued recovery connection

Parkersburg

30 beds • In development
RHP-funded conversion of vacant space in existing facility

Charleston Apartments

15 apartments • In development
Housing for women and their children

Providence West

12 two-bedroom apartments • In development
Family housing and reunification

Routes to Recovery: removing the transportation barrier

- Transportation for employment and essential appointments
- Non-emergency medical transportation and community rides
- Drivers in recovery gain meaningful employment opportunities
- Regional hubs connect people to resources and opportunity

Transportation makes sustained recovery possible

A ride can mean...

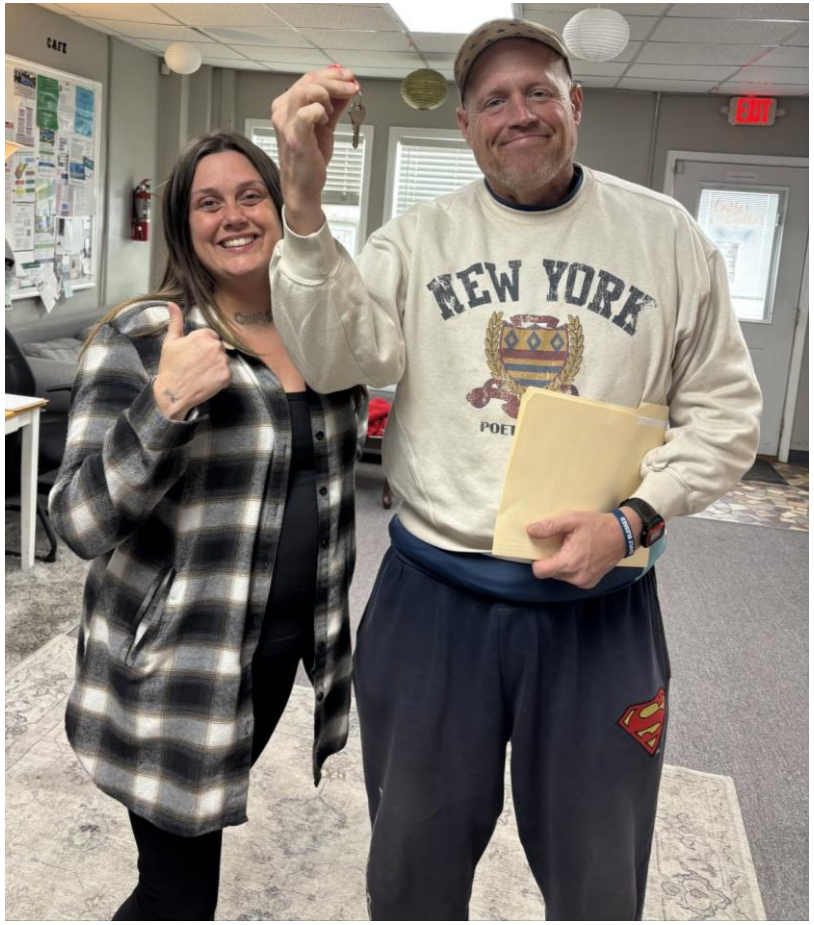

- Getting to the first interview
- Showing up consistently for every shift
- Accessing the DMV, court or essential documents
- Keeping medical and recovery related appointments

42,000+

Routes to Recovery rides in 2025

Recovery Point Bridge: connecting people and opportunity

- A community-facing Recovery Point initiative
- An opportunity to connect recovery, work and everyday life
- A visible reminder that people in recovery contribute to their communities
- Part of a broader approach to rebuilding confidence and independence

Practical support for recovery

Recovery connection	Recovery Circles, peer support, relapse prevention and support groups
Employment & education	Job referrals, GED tutoring, workforce presentations and credential training
Everyday essentials	Housing navigation, transportation, health linkages and childcare assistance
Whole-person wellness	Art therapy, financial wellness, parenting support and a welcoming environment

Connecting people to the resources they need

534

Individuals enrolled

9,764

Transportation services

234

Employment referrals

201

Peer recovery coach trainees

Recovery support translates into real-life stability

55%

Employed at 12-month follow-up

92%

Housed at 12-month follow-up

90%

Reported no illicit substance use at 6 months

12 mothers reunified with 24 children • Employment rose from approximately 24% at intake to 55% at 12 months

POWR participant follow-up outcomes; self-reported measures, not causal estimates.

Behavioral Health Services

- Customized outpatient mental health services
- Support for emotional wellness and ongoing recovery
- An important complement to peer-based recovery services
- Helps individuals address barriers to stability and employment

The importance of partnerships..

- Employers willing to create meaningful opportunities
- Transportation and housing partners who address practical barriers
- Behavioral health and community providers who coordinate support
- Funders who invest in the infrastructure of long-term recovery

RECOVERY POINT
WEST VIRGINIA

Recovery creates opportunity.

Opportunity strengthens recovery.

Learn more at recoverypointwv.org and facebook.com/recoverypointwv

Thank you!